The chalet blends in perfectly with its surroundings. Weathered wood and old stone cover its traditional mountain house façade. Inside, wood dominates every room, and the décor plays with retro colours and motifs. A grey sofa with large checks sits on a striped carpet, escorted by small leather stools. A superb revisited fireplace sits in the middle of the large living room, like a suspended wood-burning stove, an island of modernity in this charming chalet that takes us back to the 70s. On long winter evenings, you can relax by the fire or rediscover an old film on the benches of the large cinema room. To unwind, you can visit the spa on the ground floor. In the morning, you can ski down the surrounding slopes. Are you a keen hiker? You'll be amazed by the trails in the Parc de la Vanoise.
