Chalet was built at a time when it was a sign of high-born status in Méribel to name one's chalet after a type of potato dish. The département de planning in Méribel was inundated with applications and this period gave us alpine properties that have now become household names.

A short distance from skiing, rafting, and more, this pet-friendly chalet lets you experience it all. Méribel Ski Resort is just a short walk away, so you can leave your car at the property, which offers onsite parking, or jump in your vehicle to make short work of the 5-minute drive to La Tania Ski Resort. After you return, you can unwind in the spa tub or sip a drink on the balcony. For a change of scenery, come inside and enjoy the free WiFi, cable/satellite TV, and DVD player. As you settle into the place, you'll find a dining area and a fireplace. The kitchen is equipped with an oven, a stovetop, and a refrigerator, as well as a coffee maker, an electric kettle, and a microwave. And because there's a washer and dryer, you can go a bit lighter on your packing.

It is located on Rue de Roast just 450m from Méribel Centre. It has everything you would expect from a four bedroom chalet named after a breaded mashed potato pattie including no less than four bedrooms. All four of these four bedrooms have an en-suite and walk-in wardrobe too which, in our estimation, gives you four en-suites and four walk-in wardrobes. Rather neatly this works out, on average, at one en-suite and one walk-in wardrobe per bedroom. Kitchen, dining, living area with fireplace on the top floor.
